

Mary Schuldheisz

I knew in 3rd grade that I wanted to be a teacher. Since that career decision was made I have taught grades PK-12 as either the regular classroom teacher or a substitute teacher. I have also been a K-12 school administrator. These experiences have been completed in public and parochial schools. I have also had the opportunity to teach in higher education in a variety of disciplines and settings. My life has been filled with a great deal of diversity both personally and professionally. I think this coincides with my practice of being able to learn in more than one way and has extended far beyond the classroom.

I am honored to be a part of the Social Studies Cadre at OSPI. History, politics, economics, civics and geography have been a part of my life since I was in elementary school. I can thank my parents for this fact because there were many dinnertime conversations that revolved around current events and politics for as long as I can remember.
