Please note that the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) does not require OSPI to take any action that would fundamentally alter the nature of its programs or services, or impose an undue financial or administrative burden.

The SEAC Focus Areas for 2020–2021 include:

1. Inclusion and Equity in Special Education Services

Inclusion is the belief and practice that all students have the right to meaningfully access academic and social opportunities in general education settings. In Washington State, only 57 percent of students receiving special education services are included in general education settings for 80–100% of the school day. Washington is currently one of the least inclusive states, ranking 44 out of 50. The SEAC continues to recognize the critical importance of building structures that contribute to inclusive school culture, so students are successful in their learning and feel an authentic sense of belonging, along with access to high quality general education curriculum.

The SEAC recommends the:

- Clear alignment of initiatives and technical assistance OSPI is engaged in, to improve outcomes for students with disabilities from preschool through high school transition;
- Ongoing oversight and accountability for Inclusionary Practices Project, started in 2019, to improve outcomes of students with disabilities through professional development, coaching, mentoring, and establishment of demonstration sites highlighting best practices;
- Continued review of disaggregated data (exclusion, restraint/isolation, parent participation, academics, demographics, interpreters provided at meetings/certification status of those interpreters);
- Intentional quarterly reporting to include the data that reflects the intersectionality identity of students with disabilities;
- Racial equity – using the superintendent’s language on racial justice and systemic racism in the current system;
- Implementation of recommendations of the Language Access Workgroup to build the foundation of meaningful family engagement of students with disabilities; and
- Embracing of an anti-ableism framework that honors disability as a form of diversity and positive identity.

2. Special Education Funding

The SEAC continues to believe LEAs must be provided the necessary funding to support evidenced-based special education programming rooted in equity and best practices. To support this endeavor, the 2019–2020 SEAC recommends the 2020–2021 SEAC address the following funding issues:

- Support sustained funding for implementation:
  - Access to general education professional development to all relevant certificated and classified staff and resources to implement the following areas in a virtual environment and in anticipation of re-entry to in-person services:
    - i. Universal Design for Learning (UDL);
    - ii. MTSS;
    - iii. Standards-based instruction;
    - iv. Trauma invested and healing-centered practices;
    - v. Family and community engagement/education with cultural humility;
    - vi. Language Access; and
    - vii. Accessible materials.
- Continued efforts to braid funding sources and increase flexibility in the use of categorical and other funds.
- Highlighting recommendations for new structures:

- An analysis of the impact of COVID19 pandemic on school funding and therefore services.
- An analysis of the impact of the implementation of the multiplier changes to the state special education funding model from 2019–2020.
- Mental health supports
  - i. Counselors
  - ii. Increased funding for school psychologists
  - iii. Mental health providers
  - iv. Social emotional learning

3. An Analysis of the COVID-19 Response and Technical Assistance

The SEAC believes that the educational response to the global pandemic is an opportunity for Washington state to reshape and redesign the system of special education to improve practices and outcomes for all students. This new education environment requires support and guidance for school districts in the delivery of services for all students, particularly those in marginalized populations. The 2019–2020 SEAC recommends the 2020–2021 SEAC analyze the following implementation issues:

- Integration the principals of Universal Design for Learning (UDL) throughout the educational system and ensure the benefits reach each and every student.
  - Accessible materials including but not limited to translation, screen readers, closed captioning, image descriptions, perceivable texts (size/font), etc.
- The adequacy of a technical assistance system ensuring schools and LEAs are supported with tools and guidelines to meet the ever-changing needs of students in a remote learning environment, including:
  - Low-incidence disabilities, 18–21 transition, pre-K, EL, graduation, and inclusion;
  - Evaluating the need for in-person services for students who were not able to access FAPE in a remote learning environment;
  - Expanding community partnerships to meet the needs of students; and
  - Enhanced supports and training for families on communication devices/assistive technology and use of that technology.

4. Family and Community Engagement

The SEAC continues to support the development and implementation of an inclusive and equitable plan for promoting diverse engagement of family, community, and natural supports through trauma-informed and healing-centered practices which aims to increase knowledge, system improvement and acknowledge all parties' unique expertise and perspective. Our communities are diverse and becoming more disconnected in our current pandemic educational environment.

The SEAC supports and is committed equitable access in public schools. The SEAC encourages a commitment to family engagement in LEAs and school improvement plans must be accountable to the community of systemically and historically marginalized students with disabilities. The SEAC recommends the following actions:

- Support LEAs in implementing family engagement and technology practices such as training, parent special education advisory councils, and facilitation of community resources and supports for individuals with disabilities;
- Prioritize OSPI's work with stakeholders to identify and implement effective practices for family engagement in a virtual environment;
- Identify and analyze the exemplar work of LEAs in family and community engagement;
- Facilitate the procurement of funding for training and technical assistance with support of

Educational Service Districts (ESDs);

- Build an inclusive culture of community and family engagement by being intentional and consistent in removing barriers to develop relationships with families by giving them knowledge and empowering them; and
- Develop intentional communication routes and tools to ensure information travels all the way through the system to the teacher and family level in a consistent way.

5. Pre-service and In-service Educator Training

The SEAC believes that to have a truly supportive and inclusive learning environment we must move to dual certification in general education and special education for all teachers. The SEAC recommends collaboration between OSPI, The Professional Standards Board (PESB), the Washington Education Association (WEA), the Washington Association of Colleges of Teacher Education (WACTE), and other stakeholders including student and family-led organizations, to address educator preparation programs, teacher mentoring programs, and ongoing in-service professional development to include an emphasis on:

- Critical race theory, with an emphasis on intersectional identities;
- Proactive intervention;
- Classroom management strategies rooted in Positive Behavioral Interventions and Supports (PBIS);
- Teaching with a focus on equity through the practices of Universal Design for Learning (UDL); and implementing UDL with standards-based instruction;
- Teaching and engaging marginalized populations in a virtual environment with cultural responsive training;
- Multi-Tiered System of Supports (MTSS);
- Trauma-invested and healing-centered practices;
- The national focus around exclusionary practices, disproportionality, and their impact on discipline procedures;
- The effective utilization and supervision of paraeducators;
- Meaningful collaboration and communication with families;
- Meaningful collaboration, co-teaching and consultation; and
- Meaningful training for school leaders on supporting inclusive practices and models (e.g., co-teaching).

Equity:

Each student, family, and community possesses strengths and cultural knowledge that benefits their peers, educators, and schools.

Ensuring educational equity:

- Goes beyond equality; it requires education leaders to examine the ways current policies and practices result in disparate outcomes for our students of color, students living in poverty, students receiving special education and English Learner services, students who identify as LGBTQ+, and highly mobile student populations.
- Requires education leaders to develop an understanding of historical contexts; engage students, families, and community representatives as partners in decision-making; and actively dismantle systemic barriers, replacing them with policies and practices that ensure all students have access to the instruction and support they need to succeed in our schools.
