“Since Time Immemorial (STI):” Tribal Sovereignty Curriculum Basic and Training of Trainers Workshops

Effective July 24, 2015 with the passage of Senate Bill 5433, school districts are required to incorporate lessons about the history, culture and government of the nearest federally recognized Indian Tribe(s) when the district reviews or adopts its social studies curriculum (RCW 28A.320.170). School districts shall collaborate with OSPI on curricular areas regarding tribal government and history that are statewide in nature such as the concept of tribal sovereignty and the history of federal policy towards federally recognized Indian Tribes. School districts shall meet these requirements by using the “Since Time Immemorial” Tribal Sovereignty online curriculum and may modify this curriculum in order to incorporate elements that have a regionally specific focus or to incorporate the curriculum into existing curricular materials.

OSPI’s web-based Tribal sovereignty curriculum (<http://www.k12.wa.us/IndianEd/TribalSovereignty/default.aspx>) is:

- ❖ Linked to locally-based tribal information
- ❖ Accurate and reliable so you can feel confident about what you are teaching
- ❖ Endorsed by OSPI and Washington’s federally recognized Tribes
- ❖ Easy to access so you don’t have to wait for materials—they are just a click away
- ❖ Easy to integrate within your existing units so you don’t have to feel like you have to throw out your own lessons to “make room” for these materials
- ❖ Aligned to the state’s Social Studies standards, recommended units, and classroom-based assessments
- ❖ Free

The STI Tribal Sovereignty Curriculum received a major update, edit, and new look in July 2019 through the OSPI server. Our work to improve/add lessons to the site is ongoing and STI continues to be a model for curriculum nationwide. The most recent additions are the Native Knowledge 360° Pacific Northwest tribal inquiries developed through a collaboration with the Smithsonian National Museum of the American Indian. The curriculum is aligned to the state’s new social studies standards and was the first state endorsed curriculum to be aligned with Common Core Standards. The STI Tribal Sovereignty Curriculum is easy to implement because all lesson plans and materials are available on the website and it is completely free. The integration of tribal history and sovereignty into social studies lessons and classroom instruction has never been easier.

Introductory trainings provide an overview of the curriculum website, resources, and an opportunity to unpack the units. The training of trainer workshops are designed for school teams and individuals charged with the responsibility for implementing STI within the school curriculum. It is preferred that persons registering for the training of trainers would already have participated in at least one introductory STI workshop in the past two years and be familiar with the curriculum website and resources.

There is no fee to attend our trainings and free clock hours and lunch are provided. Each session will begin at 8:00 a.m. and go no later than 4 p.m. Registration is required using the attached form which helps us plan for room set up, our lunch count, and handout materials.

Wireless internet access will be available at each site and you are requested to bring a laptop with wireless internet capability, head phones which are helpful when viewing videos for lesson planning, and teacher and district planning guides

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Joan Banker, ONE, at 360/725-6160 or joan.banker@k12.wa.us.
