Purpose: Chapter 392-142-001 prescribes rules covering the operation of all school buses transporting public school students in Washington. The Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction made two technical revisions to this chapter for the purpose of clarifying certain procedures. The first revision is related to low visibility bus stops and removes the term "state patrol" because the local jurisdiction's road/traffic engineering department is responsible for placement of road signs. The Washington State Patrol does not review road signs and locations on local roads. The second revision is related to bus driver procedures and removes "parking" when describing applying brakes because other types of brakes need to be set, depending on bus manufacturer, in addition to the parking brake when loading/unloading passengers.
