Introduction

To Washington State Educators of Social Studies:

Welcome to one of our OSPI-Developed Assessments and this implementation and scoring guide. This document is part of the Washington assessment system at the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI).

The assessments have been developed by Washington State teachers and are designed to measure learning for selected components of the Washington State Social Studies Learning Standards. They have been developed for students at the elementary and secondary levels. Teachers from across the state in small, medium, and large districts and in urban, suburban, and rural settings piloted these assessments in their classrooms. These assessments provide an opportunity for teachers to measure and evaluate student growth; they can both help teachers determine if learning goals have been met, and influence how teachers organize their curricula. They also provide an opportunity for students to demonstrate the knowledge and skills they have gained.

These assessments provide:

- Immediate information to teachers regarding how well students have acquired the expected knowledge and skills in their subject areas.
- Information that can lead to continued strengthening of teaching practices.
- Resources that enable students—as part of the learning experience—to participate in measuring their achievements.

This document includes the following parts:

- directions for administration
- the student’s copy of the assessment
- scoring rubrics

Our hope is that this assessment will be used as an integral part of your instruction to advance our common goal of ensuring quality instruction for all students.

If you have questions about these assessments or suggestions for improvements, please contact:

Carol Coe, Program Supervisor, Social Studies

Overview

This document contains information that is essential to the administration of You and the Economy an OSPI-Developed Assessment for economics. If this assessment is being used as a summative assessment to determine if specific social studies learning standards have been met, then prior to its administration, all students should have received instruction in the skills and concepts needed to achieve the standards.

This assessment may be used as an integral part of instruction; as such, it may be used as a formative assessment, summative assessment, culminating project, part of an alternative education packet, part of a lesson plan or unit of study, a pre- or post-assessment, or as an individual student portfolio item. In short, OSPI encourages the use of this and other OSPI-Developed Assessments to support deep social studies learning in line with our Washington State Learning Standards and the Common Core State Standards (CCSS).

Test Administration: Expectations

- The skills assessed by this item should be authentically incorporated into classroom instruction.

- This assessment item is to be administered in a safe, appropriately supervised classroom environment following district policy and procedures.

- All industry and district safety policies and standards should be followed in the preparation and administration of any OSPI-Developed Assessment.
• Accommodations based upon a student’s individualized education program (IEP) or 504 Plan may require additional modifications to this assessment.

• Additional modifications to the administration of this assessment may be required to accommodate cultural differences, diversity, and religious mores/rules.

Description of the Performance Assessment

You and the Economy requires students to demonstrate the ability to conduct research, analyze information, and develop and support a claim.

• The task requires the student to state a claim and support it with evidence from multiple informational sources.

• The task requires the student to provide evidence to support the claim; the student must include:
  ▪ An analysis of how the student’s career choice will affect the local, national, and/or global economies.
  ▪ An analysis of how fluctuations of the economic system may affect the student’s career choice.

• The task requires the student to consider the strengths and weaknesses not only of the student’s own position, but also of opposing positions.

• Prior to taking/receiving/administration of this assessment, students must have experience with:
  ▪ Analyzing sources (close reading).
  ▪ Citing sources.
  ▪ Using text-based evidence.
  ▪ Avoiding plagiarism.

If the students have experience with the above skills, the assessment should take 5–10 days. If the assessment is used as a teaching tool, it will take 3–6 weeks.

Washington State Standards—Social Studies Essential Academic Learning Requirements (EALRs): Grade Level Expectations (GLEs)*.

- GLE 2.1.1 12th Grade: Analyzes how economic choices made by groups and individuals in the global economy can impose costs and provide benefits.
- GLE 2.2.1 12th Grade: Analyzes and evaluates the advantages and disadvantages of different economic systems for countries and groups of people.
- GLE 2.4.1 12th Grade: Analyzes and evaluates how individuals affect and are affected by the distribution of resources and sustainability.
- GLE 5.1.1 12th Grade: Analyzes the short-term and long-term implications of decisions affecting the global community.
- GLE 5.2.2 12th Grade: Evaluates the breadth of research to determine the need for new or additional investigation when researching an issue or event.
- GLE 5.4.1 12th Grade: Evaluates positions and evidence to make one’s own decisions in a paper or presentation.
- GLE 5.4.2 10th Grades: Creates strategies to avoid plagiarism and respects intellectual property when developing a paper or presentation.

*OSPI recommends that this classroom-based assessment be used at a particular grade level. If the assessment is used at another grade level within the grade band (3–5, 6–8, 9–12), the GLEs may need to be adjusted to match the content.

Definition: Evidence in the CCSS refers to facts, figures, details, quotations, or other sources of data and information that provide support for claims or an analysis and that can be evaluated by others; should appear in a form and be derived from a source widely accepted as appropriate to a particular discipline.

Students may do either a paper or a presentation in response to the assessment, provided that for either format, the response is documented in such a way that someone outside of the classroom can easily understand and review it using the rubric (e.g., a video recording of the presentation or an electronic written document).
Assessment Task

Teacher’s Instructions to Students

1. Say: “Today you will take the Grade-12 Washington OSPI-developed social studies assessment for economics. This assessment is called You and the Economy.”

2. Provide the class with copies of the student’s section of the assessment (which may include the student’s task, response sheets, rubrics, templates, and glossary), along with any other required materials.

3. Tell the students that they may highlight and write on these materials during the assessment.

4. Have the students read the directions to themselves as you read them aloud. We also encourage you to review the glossary and scoring rubric with the students.

5. Answer any clarifying questions the students may have before you instruct them to begin.

Accommodations
Refer to the student’s IEP or 504 plan.

Student’s Copy of the Task
The following section contains these materials for students:

- the student’s task: You and the Economy (Grade 12)
- assessment rubric
- worksheets and handouts (optional)
You and the Economy

Responsible citizenship requires careful consideration of the roles that people play in local, national, and global economies. You will evaluate the career choices available to you and consider the possible effects of those careers on the local, national, and international economies, as well as on yourself.

Your Task

In a cohesive paper or presentation, you will:

- State a claim in which you declare the career choice that would be best for you.
- Provide reasons for your claim. Include:
  - An analysis of how your career choice will affect the local, national, and/or global economies. Give at least one example.
  - An analysis of how the fluctuations in the economic system may affect your career choice. Give two or more examples.
- Cite specific textual evidence from at least three credible sources that provide relevant information:
  - Cite your sources when you draw information from them: for instance, when you summarize, paraphrase, or quote, and when you refer to facts, figures, and ideas.
  - Provide complete publication information for each source in your bibliography or list of works cited.

Supporting Materials and Resources for Teachers

Preparation for Administering the Assessment

Tools & Materials
Teachers will need the following materials and resources to administer this assessment:

- copies of the task (one for each student)
- copies of the rubric, handouts, worksheets, and glossary (one set for each student)

Guidelines
You can approach this assessment in any number of ways; however, the assessment is well suited to be a culminating activity of classroom instruction in economics.

While the essay format is often used for this assessment, it is not required. Students may make projects or PowerPoint presentations. Please note, however, that the final product must demonstrate that the student is able to complete the project individually; therefore, a group project is not an appropriate use of this assessment.

You should expose the students to primary source documents prior to administering this assessment.

You should also introduce students to a number of analytical methods before engaging them in the assessment; these include, but are not limited to:

- How to evaluate reliable and unreliable sources.
- How to formulate a claim.
- How to cite sources properly within a paper or presentation and in a bibliography, including instruction in APA, MLA, or Chicago citation methods.

Recommendations for Time Management
Time requirements for this assessment will vary widely based on your students' prior knowledge, chosen topics, and access to technology. If your students are completing the assessment as a culminating activity, expect to spend several days on research, collection of evidence, and outlining prior to the writing process. Writing and completion of projects can take from one day to a week depending on the prescribed format and pacing of your students.

The revision of OSPI Social Studies Assessments has been accomplished because of the dedication and determination of the Washington State Social Studies Cadre of Educators. During the past two years, cadre members have met to review and revise statewide social studies resources and materials, specifically focusing on:

- Washington State Social Studies Learning Standards: the Essential Academic Learning Requirements (EALRs) and Grade Level Expectations (GLEs).
- OSPI-developed classroom-based assessments.
- Intentional connections with the Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts & Literacy in History/Social Studies.
