Inclusionary Practices
with 2020 State Teacher of the Year Amy Campbell

Three 2-hour workshops designed to build your understanding of the history of and current research about inclusion and provide practical takeaways you can use right away to make a difference in your building, district, and community.

Certificated Staff
Ideal for general education and special education teachers
- Asset-based IEP meetings
- Centering academic goals
- Engaging parents and families as partners
- The critical role of communication

Leadership
Ideal for district and building-based administrators and board members
- Whole staff development
- Engaging special education teachers as colleagues
- Integrating inclusionary practices into existing routines and culture

Support Staff
Ideal for paraeducators, school secretaries, bus drivers, and more!
- Noticing skills first
- Understanding behavior as communication
- Review of most common accommodations
- Modeling inclusion