

Family Information Session: Transition Recovery Services Beyond Age 21

Wednesday, May 26th, 6:30–7:30 pm

Register for the Live Information Session

OSPI Special Education is hosting a live Information Session for families on Transition Recovery Services for students with disabilities, including students beyond age 21.

What are Transition Recovery Services?

Transition Recovery Services are additional transition services for students with Individualized Education Programs (IEPs). These extra services can address lack of reasonable progress on IEP goals because of missed or limited special education and related services or for other reasons due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Who Can Receive Transition Recovery Services?

Students of transition age may have experienced significant disruptions to work-based learning and community access as a result of the pandemic. IEP teams should consider transition recovery service needs for students with IEPs who are continuing in school.

Students who turned age 21 during the pandemic may also need transition recovery services. The Washington State Legislature has provided funding for the 2021–22 and 2022–23 school years to support transition recovery services for students who turned age 21 during or after the 2019–20 school year and have not yet earned a high school diploma.

How Can I Learn More?

Please join us for this live information session on Wednesday, May 26th, 6:30–7:30 pm to learn more. We will answer questions live during the webinar. You can also submit your questions during registration to be sure they get answered during the webinar. We will have language interpretation options available.

You can also find the latest updates on our OSPI Special Education Transition Services \(Ages 16-21\) page for families, including the video recording of this session. For specific questions on transition recovery services, please call 360-725-6075 or email OSPI Special Education.

